Section 1 Layout-Design Exploitation Right

(Accrual and Duration of Layout-Design Exploitation Right)

Article 10 (1) A layout-design exploitation right shall accrue when a registration of establishment is made.

(2) The duration of a layout-design exploitation right shall end ten years after the date on which a registration of establishment is made.

Article 11 A holder of a layout-design exploitation right shall have the exclusive right to exploit a layout-design for which a registration of establishment has been made in the course of trade (hereinafter referred to as a "registered layout-design"); provided, however, in the case where an exclusive exploitation right has been established in relation to his/her layout-design exploitation right, this provision shall not apply to the extent that a holder of an exclusive exploitation right has a right to exploit the registered layout-design exclusively.

(Limitation on Layout-Design Exploitation Right)

Article 12 (1) The effect of a layout-design exploitation right shall not extend to any exploitation of layout-design which is created by other persons.

(2) The effect of a layout-design exploitation right shall not extend to any acts of manufacturing semiconductor integrated circuits utilizing the registered layout-design in the case where it is for the purpose of analysis or evaluation.

(3) Where any holder of a layout-design exploitation right, holder of an exclusive exploitation right or holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right has transferred semiconductor integrated circuits (including articles incorporating said semiconductor integrated circuits as a part thereof; hereinafter the same shall apply in this paragraph) manufactured utilizing the registered layout-design, the effect of a layout-design exploitation right shall not extend to any acts of transferring, leasing, displaying for the purpose of transfer or leasing, or importing the transferred semiconductor integrated circuits.

(Relation to Other Person's Patented Inventions, etc.)

Article 13 No holder of a layout-design exploitation right, holder of an exclusive exploitation right or holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right may exploit the registered layout-design in the course of trade, when such exploitation of the registered layout-design falls under the working of another person's patented invention or registered utility model.

(Jointly Held Layout-Design Exploitation Right)

Article 14 (1) None of the coowners of a layout-design exploitation right may either assign his/her share nor create a pledge on it without the consent of the other coowners.

(2) Each coowner of a layout-design exploitation right may exploit the registered layout-design without the consent of the other coowners, unless otherwise agreed upon by contract.

(Extinction of Layout-Design Exploitation Right due to Dissolution of Juridical Person, etc.)

Article 15 A layout-design exploitation right shall cease to exist in the following cases:

(i) where, upon the dissolution of a juridical person holding a layout-design exploitation right, the layout-design exploitation right is to belong to the national treasury pursuant to the provision of Article 239, paragraph (3) of the Act on General Incorporated Associations and General Incorporated Foundations (Act No.48 of 2006) or the provisions of other equivalent Acts; and

(ii) where, upon the death of an individual who is a holder of a layout-design exploitation right, the layout-design exploitation right is to belong to the national treasury pursuant to the provision of Article 959 of the Civil Code (Act No. 89 of 1896).

(Exclusive Exploitation Right)

Article 16 (1) A holder of a layout-design exploitation right may establish an exclusive exploitation right in relation to his/her layout-design exploitation right.

(2) A holder of an exclusive exploitation right shall have the exclusive right to exploit the registered layout-design in the course of trade to the extent laid down in the act of establishment.

(3) An exclusive exploitation right may be transferred only when the business involving the exploitation of layout-design is also transferred, when it is with the consent of the holders of a layout-design exploitation right, or when it is as a result of inheritance or other general succession.

(4) A holder of an exclusive exploitation right may create a pledge or grant a non-exclusive exploitation right to a third party in relation to his/her exclusive exploitation right only with the consent of the holders of a layout-design exploitation right.

(5) The provisions of Article 14 shall apply mutatis mutandis to an exclusive exploitation right.

(Non-exclusive Exploitation Right)

Article 17 (1) A holder of a layout-design exploitation right may grant a non-exclusive exploitation right to any third party in relation to his/her layout-design exploitation right.

(2) A holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right shall have the right to exploit the registered layout-design in the course of trade to the extent laid down in the act of establishment.

(3) A non-exclusive exploitation right may be transferred only when the business involving the exploitation of layout-design is also transferred, when it is with the consent of the holders of a layout-design exploitation right (or, for a non-exclusive right granted in relation to an exclusive exploitation right, both the holders of a layout-design exploitation right and the holders of an exclusive exploitation right; the same shall apply in the following paragraph), or when it is as a result of inheritance or other general succession.

(4) A holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right may create a pledge in relation to his/her non-exclusive exploitation right only with the consent of the holders of a layout-design exploitation right.

(5) The provisions of Article 14, paragraph (1) and (2) shall apply mutatis mutandis to a non-exclusive exploitation right.

(Pledge)

Article 18 Where a pledge has been created on a layout-design exploitation right, exclusive exploitation right or non-exclusive exploitation right, the pledgee may not utilize said registered layout-design unless otherwise agreed upon by contract.

Article 19 A pledge on any layout-design exploitation right, exclusive exploitation right or non-exclusive exploitation right may be exercised against any consideration to be paid for the layout-design exploitation right, exclusive exploitation right or non-exclusive exploitation right, or any money or goods to be received by either of the holder of a layout-design exploitation right or the holder of an exclusive exploitation right for the exploitation of the registered layout-design; provided, however, that the consideration, money or goods shall be attached prior to the payment of money or delivery of goods.

(Waiver of Layout-Design Exploitation Right, etc.)

Article 20 (1) A holder of a layout-design exploitation right may, when there is any holder of an exclusive exploitation right, holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right or pledgee, waive his/her right to exploit the layout-design only with the consent of such person.

(2) A holder of an exclusive exploitation right may, when there is any holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right or pledgee, waive his/her exclusive exploitation right only with the consent of such person.

(3) A holder of a non-exclusive exploitation right may, when there is pledgee, waive his/her non-exclusive exploitation right only with the consent of such person.

(Effect of Registration)

Article 21 (1) No matters listed in the following items may be asserted against any third party unless they have been registered:

- (i) the transfer (excluding a transfer due to inheritance or other general succession), or restriction on disposition, of a layout-design exploitation right;
- (ii) the establishment, transfer (excluding a transfer due to inheritance or other general succession), modification, extinction (excluding extinction due to confusion, or extinction of a layout-design exploitation right), or restriction on disposition, of an exclusive exploitation right;
- (iii) the transfer (excluding a transfer due to inheritance or other general succession), modification, extinction (excluding extinction due to confusion, or extinction of a layout-design exploitation right or an exclusive exploitation right), or restriction on disposition, of a non-exclusive exploitation right; and
- (iv) the establishment, transfer (excluding a transfer due to inheritance or other general succession), modification, extinction (excluding extinction due to confusion, or extinction of a credit secured thereby), or restriction on disposition, of pledge on a layout-design exploitation right, exclusive exploitation right or non-exclusive exploitation right.

(2) A non-exclusive exploitation right shall, when it has been registered, have an effect on any person who subsequently acquires its layout-design exploitation right, its exclusive exploitation right, or an exclusive exploitation right in relation to its layout-design exploitation right.

(3) The registration set forth in the preceding two paragraphs shall be completed by the Minister of Economy, Trade and Industry, with the entry of the relevant matters in the layout-design registry.

Section 2 Infringement of Rights

(Right to Seek Injunction)

Article 22 (1) A holder of a layout-design exploitation right or a holder of an exclusive exploitation right may demand that a person who infringes or is likely to infringe his/her own layout-design exploitation right or exclusive exploitation right should discontinue or prevent such infringement.

(2) A holder of a layout-design exploitation right or a holder of an exclusive exploitation right may, upon making a demand pursuant to the preceding paragraph, demand that the measures necessary for the prevention of such infringement, including the disposal of semiconductor integrated circuits constituting such act of infringement or materials provided for the act of infringement, should be taken.

(Acts Deemed to Constitute Infringement)

Article 23 Any act of manufacturing, transferring, leasing, displaying for the purpose of transfer or leasing, or importing products used solely for the purpose of imitating the registered layout-design in the course of trade shall be deemed to constitute infringement of a layout-design exploitation right or an exclusive exploitation right.

(Special Provisions for a Person in Good Faith)

Article 24 (1) Any act of transferring, leasing, displaying for the purpose of transfer or leasing, or importing semiconductor integrated circuits (including articles incorporating the semiconductor integrated circuits as a part thereof; hereinafter the same shall apply in this Article) performed in the course of trade by a person who was unaware that, and was not at fault in that he/she was unaware that, said semiconductor integrated circuits were manufactured utilizing a layout-design imitating the registered layout-design pertaining to another person's layout-design exploitation right or exclusive exploitation right (hereinafter referred to as the "fact of imitation") at the time of the delivery of said semiconductor integrated circuits (hereinafter referred to as a "person in good faith") shall not be deemed to constitute an act of infringement of said layout-design exploitation right or exclusive exploitation right.

(2) A holder of a layout-design exploitation right or a holder of an exclusive exploitation right may, when a person in good faith has performed any act of transferring, leasing, displaying for the purpose of transfer or leasing, or importing the semiconductor integrated circuits in the course of trade after having become aware of the fact of imitation, claim against such person for the payment of money in an amount equivalent to the amount he/she normally gains through the exploitation of the registered layout-design.

(3) When the payment has been made by a person in good faith to the holder of a layout-design exploitation right or the holder of an exclusive exploitation right as prescribed in the preceding paragraph, the semiconductor integrated circuits shall be deemed to have been transferred by said holder of a layout-design exploitation right or holder of an exclusive exploitation right.

(4) The provision of Article 26 and the provisions of Article 719, paragraph (1) and Article 724 of the Civil Code shall apply mutatis mutandis to the exercise of the right to claim prescribed in paragraph (2).

(Presumption of Amount of Damages, etc.)

Article 25 (1) When the holder of a layout-design exploitation right or the holder of an exclusive exploitation right claims against an infringer for compensation for damages caused as a result of intentional or negligent infringement of his/her own layout-design exploitation right or exclusive exploitation right, and if the infringer has earned profits from such act of infringement, the amount of profits earned by the infringer shall be presumed to be the amount of damage sustained by the holder of a layout-design exploitation right or the holder of an exclusive exploitation right.

(2) The holder of a layout-design exploitation right or the holder of an exclusive exploitation right may claim against an infringer for an amount equivalent to the amount he/she normally gains through the exploitation of the registered layout-design, by regarding said amount to be the compensation for damages caused as a result of the intentional or negligent infringement of his/her layout-design exploitation right or exclusive exploitation right.

(3) The provision of the preceding paragraph shall not prevent any claim of compensation for damages in an amount exceeding the amount prescribed therein. In this case, when, with regard to the infringer of a layout-design exploitation right or an exclusive exploitation right, there was neither intent nor gross negligence, the court may take these circumstances into consideration in determining the amount of damages.

(Production of Documents)

Article 26 In litigation concerning the infringement of a layout-design exploitation right or an exclusive exploitation right, the court may, upon the motion of a party, order the other party to produce documents required to calculate the damages caused by said act of infringement; provided, however, that this shall not apply where there are reasonable grounds for the person possessing the documents to refuse production of the documents.

Section 3 Compensation

(Compensation)

Article 27 (1) In the case where a creator, etc. of a layout-design or a person with authorization therefrom had performed the acts listed in Article 2, paragraph (3), item (ii) in the course of trade prior to the registration of establishment with respect to said layout-design, and if, during the period after such act had been performed until the registration of establishment is made, any person who was aware that a layout-design was imitating said layout-design (hereinafter referred to as an "imitated layout-design" in this paragraph and paragraph (4)) and exploited such imitated layout-design in the course of trade, such person shall, if a registration of establishment for said layout-design is made, be liable to pay compensation equivalent to the amount he/she normally is required to pay through such exploitation to the creator, etc. of said layout-design.

(2) The right to claim compensation as prescribed in the preceding paragraph may not be exercised until a registration of establishment with respect to said layout-design has been made.

(3) In the case where a registration of establishment with respect to the layout-design prescribed in paragraph (1) was made but cancelled pursuant to the provision of Article 9, the right to claim compensation as prescribed in the same paragraph shall be deemed never to have existed.

(4) The provisions of Article 23 and the preceding Article of this Act, and Article 719, paragraph (1) and Article 724 of the Civil Code shall apply mutatis mutandis to the case where the right to claim compensation as prescribed in paragraph (1) is exercised. In this case, where a person having said right has become aware of the fact of the exploitation of the imitated layout-design as well as of a person who exploited the imitated layout-design prior to the registration of establishment for said layout-design, the term "the time when the victim or his/her legal representative comes to know the damages and the identity of the perpetrator" in Article 724 of the Civil Code shall be deemed to be replaced with "the date of the registration of establishment for said layout-design."
