An Act to amend the Patents Act 1953

BE IT ENACTED by the Parliament of New Zealand as follows:

1 Short Title

This Act may be cited as the Patents Amendment Act 1999, and is part of the Patents Act 1953 (“the principal Act”).

2 Persons entitled to make application

- (1) Section 7(2) of the principal Act is amended by inserting, after the word “country” where it first occurs, the words “(whether before or after it became a convention country)”.
- (2) Subsection (1) is for the avoidance of doubt.

3 Orders in Council as to convention countries

- (1) The principal Act is amended by repealing section 77, and substituting the following section:

“77

For the purpose of giving effect to any international agreement or arrangement to which New Zealand is a party or that applies to New Zealand, the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare that any entity specified in the order that is a party to the agreement or arrangement or to which the agreement or arrangement applies (whether a state, part of a state, a territory for whose international relations a state is responsible, a political union, an international organisation, or any other entity) is, for the purposes of all or any of the provisions of this Act, a convention country.”

- (2) Section 2(1) of the principal Act is amended by repealing the definition of the term convention country, and substituting the following definition:

“Convention country, in any provision of this Act, means an entity for the time being declared by an order under section 77 to be a convention country for the purposes of that provision:”

- (3) Section 2 of the principal Act is amended by adding the following subsection:

“(3) In the case of an entity that is a convention country but is not a state, part of a state, or a territory for whose international relations a state is responsible,—

“(a) A reference in this Act to—

“(i) Application for protection in a country; or

“(ii) Application for protection in respect of a country,—

must be read as a reference to application for protection under the rules of the entity:

“(b) A reference in this Act to filing a specification in a convention country must be read as a reference to filing a specification under the rules of the entity:

“(c) A reference in this Act to the law of a convention country must be read as a reference to the rules of the entity:

- “(d) A reference in this Act to the Government of a convention country must be read as a reference to the governing body of the entity.”
- (4) The substitution by subsection (1) of a new section 77 of the principal Act for the existing section does not affect any order made under the existing section; and any such order may be amended or revoked by an order made under the substituted section.
